

JULIE JUN, ESQ.

Mass Tort, Product Liability, General Liability

With nearly 20 years of experience as a litigator, Julie Jun has handled cases from inception through trial and appeal at national law firms, including an AM Law 200 firm, before starting her own practice in 2023. She now handles personal injury cases, as well as family law, and business disputes. In the past, she specialized in complex product liability and mass tort litigation, serving as a core member of national coordinating and trial counsel teams for privately held and multi-national corporations, including manufacturers and distributors of various automotive products, HVAC equipment, pharmaceuticals, and medical devices. In that capacity, Ms. Jun gained valuable experience litigating both state and federal court claims in over 40 jurisdictions nationwide. Additionally, she has litigated disputes involving false advertising, nursing homes, construction equipment, premises liability, contract disputes, and other general liability claims. Prior to obtaining her law degree, she worked in medical research in laboratories specializing in immunology/pathology.

Ms. Jun has represented corporate and individual clients as both plaintiffs and defendants in matters involving complex and general litigation. Her broad experience enables her to bring an unbiased, creative, and collaborative approach to conflict resolution.

Julie Jun resides in Atlanta and is available to mediate cases nationwide.
